BIOGRAPHICAL
THINGS I REMEMBER AS A CHILD
By - MARGARET ELVRA JIMERSON B: 1908

I remember my Mother (Martha Cumi Sharp Jimerson, B:1846) telling of walking beside the wagon, coming from Tennessee, through rain and snow. She came with her folks (Jonathan and Margaret Elvery Sharp). She was 19 years old when she made the journey.

They made all of their own material mostly from flax. They made their own lye, and to do this they took wood ashes and placed them in a barrel. When the barrel was full, they filled the barrel with water, then let it drain down, thus creating the lye. From this they made their own soap using lye and the fryings of cracklings from making lard.

With this lye water they also made hominy. They would put lye water on the stove and into this put corn and would boil this mixture until the peelings came off of the corn. Then the corn was washed until all taste of the lye was removed.

Mother told of one big field they used to plant corn in, while still living in Tennessee. The field was on a hillside and it seemed so very large. They planted the corn seed, and carried dirt from the valley on a hoe to cover each hill. Later, when her Uncle Nick (Nicholas Sharp), came back from a trip to Tennessee many years later (in 1934), he told that there were only eight rows of corn in that "BIG" field!

Uncle Nick insisted he would not raise corn and farm for a living, and when they left for Nebraska, he wanted to bring all of his carvings and woodwork he had made. He could not bring them, but he later became a carpenter, and he lived to be past 94 years old.

Her Mother, Martha Cumi Sharp Jimerson, an older sister to Uncle Nick Sharp, had a milk house which had a long trough. In this trough they set milk in large crocks and would turn on the windmill and run water through the trough to cool the milk. The cream would rise to the top and after a day or so, the cream was skimmed off and butter was made. This was done by putting the cream in a large tall crock which had a lid with a hole in the center and a dasher that fitted through this hole that had a base made of wood with holes in it. This was pushed up and down until the butter separated from the milk. Butter was removed and salted and molded in wood molds and any extra they took to town and sold along with their eggs. This money was used to buy their groceries.

Jonathan Sharp homesteaded (he bought it) 1/4 section (160 acres) of land, a portion of which later became part of the town of Liberty, NE. Father Jimerson also homesteaded land, a part of this land also became part of the town of Liberty.

Indians came to our house very often. At one time, brother Billy (William Riley SHARP) had what is known as diphtheria. An Indian woman came one time and said "boy bad sick, I make well!" She used sulfur and blew it down his throat. When asked what they owed her, she said "three hens".

The family made all of their own candles for light. Mother had a candle mold. This was before kerosene lamps were available. Made dipper out of gourds dried.

When supplies were needed, Father drove over 100 miles (actually 125 miles round trip) with oxen and wagon, later horses and wagon, to what is now known as Brownsville, NE, on the Missouri River. The trip was about once a month.

Corn was taken to Blue Springs, NE or Marysville, KS (24 miles and 30 miles round trip) to be ground into cornmeal. Wheat was threshed with horse driven separator, this is the way I remember.

The only sugar or means of sweetening was: they grew the cane, stripped off the leaves and ground cane, then boiled down the juice to a brown stage. Settlings were sugar and syrup, this is what was known as sorghum. This was our bread spreadings.

First dishes were pottery obtained from the Indians. Feathers were picked from live ducks and geese, then made into pillows and feather ticking filled with straw, these were changed each time general house cleaning was done. In my younger years, the ticking was woven at home.

My Mother died on her straw tick on July 1st, 1940 because she would not have a mattress. She recovered from a bad case of pneumonia, three years before her death. There was no electricity, so no steam was available.

Mustard plasters or flax seed poultices were used.

My Father planted the first apple orchard in the county (Gage) where we lived.

Any fruit available when I was young was wild grapes, wild plums, wild crabapples, and gooseberries.

The only toys we had as children were whistles made from willow sticks, jack straws made from pine. Tops were made from spools. Later, our Christmas was mae up of rag dolls and a very special Christmas was an orange. I was nearly grown when I had my first orange.

BIOGRAPHICAL
NICHOLAS SHARP, B:1851 AND CYNTHIA CAROLINE
JIMERSON SHARP, B:1859

Nicholas Sharp purchased a farm located 2 1/2 miles south of Liberty, Gage County, NE ca 1875/6. The exact size of the farm is unknown, but believed to be 160 acres. It had a typical 2 story wooden frame farm house on it which served as the family home until he retired from farming, sold the farm and moved to Lincoln, NE on April 26, 1915. The house remained until the mid 1960's when it was burned. All of his children are believed to have been born on this farm.

As stated, he was a farmer and a carpenter all of his working life. Upon moving to Lincoln they resided in a large home at the southwest corner of 26th & Holdredge Sts. Their address was 1455 N. 26th St. They remained at this location until their passing.

I remember having been the individual who must have passed along the whooping cough to Grandfather in about 1927/8. I had the disease at that time - but Grandfather had it much worse, in fact he was very ill with it. I still recall how hard he would cough at times. Since no one else in the family was having the disease - but he and I, naturally it was I who was blamed for spreading it to him!

For about 15 years after moving to Lincoln - Grandfather did not own an automobile. However, in 1931, he purchased a new Willys - Knight sedan. He was 80 years old at the time and I remember Father being quite apprehensive whether he could learn to drive, and that if he would be a safe driver at his age. I recall well seeing Grandfather drive in a fashion that even I, at my young age, knew were not safe practices. Grandfather was hard of hearing and did not use any form of hearing aid, consequently, he did not hear horns nor train whistles very well. On one occasion, Dad rode down to Liberty with Grandfather shortly after he purchased the car, and tells of Grandfather not hearing the whistle of an approaching train. Dad relates that he came to the realization that the train was likely to hit them at the intersection - so he reached down and pulled the emergency brake lever and managed to stop the car - just short of the crossing. An aside - the brake lever in those days was located on the front floor in the center! Grandfather later admitted that he had not heard the train whistle and that Dad indeed had saved them from an accident. As Grandfather became more elderly, his driving habits became even worse. Finally Dad literally forced Grandfather to stop driving since he was such a menace, although, to my knowledge, he never had a serious accident.

Grandfather was an avowed Democrat, and believed that only Democrats could properly run our Government. I still recall of our visits to their house and of listening to Dad and Grandfather debating the political events of the day. Grandfather, being retired, read considerably and was quite knowledgeable of government operations. Dad also read considerably and was also well informed. Although Dad was a registered Democrat, he prided himself on voting for whom he considered to be the most qualified candidate - rather than voting straight Democratic - as his father did!

Grandfather and Grandmother Sharp were married for 68 years before her passing in 1943. On the occasion of their 65th anniversary, in 1940, my Great Uncle George L. Sharp, who was considered the "family historian", wrote an article concerning this celebration and it is shown elsewhere in this book.

I remember of frequently visiting my Grandparents since they only lived two short blocks from out home. I particularly enjoyed seeing Grandmother and playing the game

"Carom" with her. This game required that the player "flip" a wooden ring with your finger and hit another ring and knock that ring into a corner pocket of the playing board. I seemed to always beat her but at that time I didn't realize that my young fingers were so much more agile than hers, as she was then in her 70's. She used to often want to play a game of cards - instead of the Carom game, but only now do I fully understand her reason.

Grandfather Sharp also had a reputation for being an individual who possessed excellent hand writing ability. He also enjoyed teaching other persons the art of penmanship

NICHOLAS SHARP B:1851 & CYNTHIA CAROLINE JIMERSON B:1858

Following are various stories centered about my Grandparents - Nicholas Sharp, B:1851 and Cynthia Carolina Jimerson Sharp, B:1859. Most of these stories were personally related to me by my Grandparents, others were obtained from my siblings. Related by Donald G. Sharp

TROOPS MARCHING BY THE HOUSE

My Grandfather Nicholas Sharp spoke of the various times during the Civil War when soldiers of both the Union forces and the Confederate forces would march past their home. Their log cabin, at that time was on one of the principle roads that ran between the Cumberland Gap, which was to the northeast, and the city of Knoxville, to the south. This region was controlled at various times by both Armies, depending on the particular military Campaign then being waged. He would say that first the Union Army would march past, often marching as long as three days and three nights - and marching almost continuously. After a period of time, the Confederate Army would then pass, marching the other way, and again, they too would take several days to completely pass by the house.

There wasn't too much of a problem when the soldiers were marching, the problem arose when they would pause to take a break, or occasionally rest for the night. That was when the foraging parties would enter the farm and take the good horses, and only sometimes, leave their old and lame horses in return. This wasn't all they took. The soldiers would "help themselves" to grains and meats and other foodstuffs that they could find. Grandfather stated that it made no difference which Army it was, they both took what items were then available from the farm. The farmers, by necessity, would again start to gather items for their own use and consumption, as they were in a serious situation without livestock and foodstuffs. However, once the farmers would have re-acquired and stored some items ahead, the other Army would come through, again repeating the process.

He stated that the family was very badly hurt as a result of this frequent "raiding" on their stock and supplies and were in dire need of relief. As a direct consequence of this situation, Great Grandfather, Jonathan Sharp, made his decision to move westward, leaving their Tennessee home in September, 1864.

THE TALE OF INDIAN CHARLEY

In the early 1880's, while my grandparents - the Nicholas Sharp's, were living on a farm 3 miles south of Liberty, NE, there were Indians still living in the vicinity. The Federal government had not yet compelled the Indians to be moved to reservations and did not do so until about 1885.

It is believed that these Indians were of the Otoe tribe, and they were generally known to be peaceful. These Indians were nomadic and would move frequently, in their traditional manner, to another area in search of better food, fuel, or shelter. They would normally set up their camp near a stream in order to have ready access to water. There was a stream on my grandfather's farm and quite often the Indians would set up their camp on his farm. Also, my grandfather, had on occasion, give them foodstuffs of some nature. Normally, though, the Indians obtained foodstuffs in their traditional manner, but the increasing presence of the white settlers, had made the Indians task more difficult.

Grandfather often spoke of how difficult it became for the Indians to seek game, berries, seeds, roots, or other natural items which they consumed. He often spoke, too, of how frequently the Indians would be virtually starving for the lack of food and would seek assistance from the local farmers - like himself. Their situation was desperate - as their normal habits had been totally disrupted by the white settlements, thus ultimately leading the Federal government to decide it to be a humane and proper course of action to move all Indians to a reservation.

Generally speaking, though, my grandfather did not have frequent, day by day dealings with the Indians. An exception though was one particular Pawnee Indian whom he affectionately called "Indian Charley". It is not known just what status "Indian Charley" held with his own people. Whether he should be termed a "chief" or a "medicine man" is not clear, but whatever his standing was, he often served as a "go - between for the white man and the Indians. He would come to grandfather's farm on occasion, and grandfather - recognizing that he was hungry, would give him a sack of cornmeal, or other available produce. Indian Charley would then take the items back to his camp and parcel them out among the other Indians.

On the occasion of this particular story, my grandmother, Cynthia Carolina Jimerson Sharp, was ailing with some form of disease. Medical doctors in this southern region of Nebraska were either very scarce - or non existent. Consequently, she was being treated with all the normal "home remedies" which were then available. However, her condition continued to worsen, and finally, as a last resort, my grandfather, recognizing that her situation was serious, decided to seek the assistance of Indian Charley. He went out to where some of the local Indians were camped and spoke with them, but they indicated that they did not know where Indian Charley was currently located. Grandfather stressed to them that he wanted to speak with Indian Charley very soon and urged them to find him and have him come to his farm. Apparently the Indians were successful in their search as Indian Charley showed up at the farm a few days later.

Upon his arrival, grandfather described the condition of my grandmother to him and requested his assistance in returning her to good health. Indian Charley immediately proceeded to prepare an Indian concoction which contained various herbs, roots, and other locally available ingredients. Despite grandmother's protestations concerning taking the foul smelling and tasting the potion, grandfather was successful in persuading her to drink it. Seemingly, this was their last resort - in so far as treatment was concerned. I also recall my grandmother stating how very bad the potion tasted.

Grandfather contended that his wife commenced to promptly get better, although it was quite a period of time before she returned to full health. Grandfather was totally convinced that Indian Charley's concoction was responsible for his wife's recovery. That contention may be debatable today as perhaps the disease (we don't know what it was) had "run" its course and she would have improved regardless of taking Indian Charley's "brew". We'll never know the true answer.

Nevertheless, grandfather was very grateful to Indian Charley and told him that he could have anything which he possessed as payment for his assistance. Indian Charley then looked around grandfather's farm and saw some gourds which were hanging in a barn. They mutually agreed that Indian Charley could take all which he could carry. It seems that Indian Charley had come on a small Indian horse, or pony, so he proceeded to load the little animal with all the gourds that he could possibly tie upon him. Grandfather always chuckled as he spoke of Indian Charley riding away with all those gourds hanging from the little animal - so many that he literally could not see the little animal! Grandfather would say that the little Indian pony looked more like a "porcupine" - than a horse!

CLOUDS OF GRASSHOPPERS

Father would often speak of the times in his early youth when grasshoppers would suddenly come onto his father's farm near Liberty, NE. They would come as vast "clouds of grasshoppers". There would be so many that they would literally "blot out" the sun as they moved about. The creatures would often settle down in a corn field - or other types of fields where crops were growing and would not depart that field until every plant was completely devoured and destroyed.

This type of menace to the farmers was not an unusual occurrence in the 1870's time period, in Nebraska. There would not be any type of warning as to their coming, and the farmers were helpless once the insects landed in their fields. They wouldn't stay too long in one field, but it was a crop disaster to the farmer when they did.

Dad would say that his mother would gather all the children into the house when the pests were first noticed, although the grasshoppers did no personal harm to humans. However, their presence, in addition to being destructive, was also a nuisance. Grandmother did not, under any circumstances, want them entering her home so she would assure that all doors and windows were shut tightly so as to block the pests from entering.

INDIANS AND THE WATERMELONS

My Grandfather Nicholas Sharp during the harvest season - in late summer, would have a plentiful supply of home grown watermelons. There would be many more melons available than what his family could eat at the time, or what they could preserve in some manner for later consumption.

Consequently, for "cash crop" purposes, he would load a farm wagon with the excess watermelons and drive the wagon to Barnston, NE to sell. Barnston was about 5 to 6 miles to the southwest of Grandfather's farm and was a bigger community than the nearby Liberty, NE. Also, Barnston was where there was an Indian Reservation for some time in the 1880's.

The Pawnee Indians were still living in the area at this time and would come into Barnston to barter or otherwise obtain the various items which they desired. Apparently, the Indians were quite fond of watermelons and while Grandfather was endeavoring to sell the melons, the Indians would attempt to take them and walk away - without paying for them.

The method they would use was to very carefully look over the melons, and while Grandfather was not looking, they would conceal a melon under their blanket or garment which they were wearing. It was obvious to Grandfather that because of the big lump which suddenly bulged from under the Indians' garment that they were attempting to take a melon. Recognizing what was occurring, Grandfather would use his sturdy hickory stick to "rap the Indian" in the area where the melon was hidden and cause the Indian to either drop or put back the melon. Needless to say - the Indians didn't like that, but Grandfather was able to retain his melons for sale.

A CASE OF THE "WHOOPING COUGH"

I remember having been the individual who must have passed along the whooping cough to my Grandfather Nicholas Sharp ca 1927/8. I was only 7 or 8 years old and had the disease at that time - but Grandfather - he had it too but much worse. In fact, he was very seriously ill with it. I still recall how hard he would cough at times. Since no one else in the family was having the disease - but he and I, naturally it was I who was blamed for spreading it to him! Why, at his advanced age (77 years old), he caught the disease I still don't know. Perhaps he had never had the disease prior to that time.

AN EXAMPLE OF THE "AGE" DIFFERENCE

I remember of frequently visiting my Grandparent Nicholas & Carolina Sharp since they only lived two short blocks from our home. I particularly enjoyed visiting my Grandmother and playing the game "Carom" with her. This game required that the player "flip" a wooden ring with your finger - and hit another ring and - knock that ring into a corner pocket of the playing board. I seemed to always beat her but at that time I didn't realize that my young fingers were so much more agile than hers, as she was then in her 70's. She used to often want to play a game of cards - instead of the Carom game, but only now - since I have attained the same age as my Grandmother then - do I fully understand her reason for resisting the playing of that game.

GRANDFATHER SHARP - AND HIS "DRIVING"

For about 15 years after moving to Lincoln - my Grandfather Nicholas Sharp, did not own an automobile. However, in 1931, he purchased a new Willys - Knight sedan. He was 80 years old at the time and I remember Father being quite apprehensive whether he could (or should) learn to drive, and in particular whether he would be a safe driver at his age. I recall well seeing Grandfather drive in a fashion that even I, at my young age, knew was not a safe practice. Grandfather was hard of hearing and did not use any form of hearing aid, consequently, he did not hear horns nor train whistles very well. On one occasion, Dad rode down to Liberty, NE with Grandfather shortly after he purchased the car, and tells of Grandfather not hearing the whistle of an approaching train. Dad relates that he came to the realization that the train was likely to hit them at the upcoming crossing - so he reached down and pulled the emergency brake lever and managed to stop the car - just short of the crossing. An aside - the brake lever in those days was located on the front floor in the center! Grandfather later admitted that he had not heard the train whistle and that Dad indeed had saved them from an accident. As Grandfather became more elderly, his driving habits became even worse. Finally, Dad (Nathan Kirk Sharp) literally forced Grandfather to stop driving since he was such a menace, although, to my knowledge, he never had a serious accident - Thank Goodness!

"POLITICS" - OLD STYLE

Grandfather Nicholas Sharp, was an avowed Democrat, and believed that only Democrats could properly run our Government. I still recall of our visits to their house and of listening to my Dad (Nathan Kirk Sharp) and Grandfather Sharp debating the political issues of the day. Grandfather, being retired, read considerably and was quite knowledgeable of governmental operations. However, he voted "only" for those candidates of the Democratic Party. Dad also read considerably and was also quite well informed. Although Dad was also a registered Democrat, he prided himself on voting for whom he considered to be the most qualified candidate - rather than voting straight Democratic - as his father did! I can assure the reader that there were many "heated" discussions on this subject!

CELEBRATION OF THE 65TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Nicholas and Caroline Jimerson Sharp observed their 65th Anniversary on February 10, 1940. They had been married 65 years on Saturday, the 17th, but chose to observe the day on Sunday - the 18th. They kept Open House from 2:00 o'clock P.M. until 5:00 o'clock P.M. A number of folks coming from a distance were in before noon and they arranged to give them dinner at 12:30 at Frank Rose's home - only two doors away from the parents. The roads were bad and many could not come. Clyde and Carrie Ellison being the only persons from Liberty, the old home town. They spent 3 « hours to make the 60 miles. There were several from a distance in other directions. More than 100 congratulations and greetings came from a distance by mail. A steady coming and going by local people all afternoon. Light refreshments were served to all who came. It was a genial and happy gathering. The first 65th wedding anniversary to be reached in the Sharp tribe. Both Nick and Caroline were in usual health and enjoyed the occasion very much. Three of their children were present. Kirk Sharp, Anna Shannon, and Fanola Rose. A number of grandchildren and a few great grandchildren. A number of nieces and nephews, and a host of friends It was a happy occasion. One never to be forgotten by those who were there. They received a large number of potted plants and Bouquets. Twenty one letters and sixty two cards, all congratulations to them on this happy occasion. Eighty names were registered in the Guest Book. There were sixteen guests from out of the city in spite of the blockaded condition on the roads.

Death of Pioneer

Allen Jimerson jr., a pioneer Gage county resident, died Monday morning, at his home near Liberty. Death was caused from cancer, from which Mr. Jimerson had been suffering for some years. The deceased came to this section of Nebraska in 1867. He was the original owner of a part of the Liberty townsite and had continued to reside on the quarter section from which a part of the Liberty corporation was taken. He was highly respected in that vicinity and had reared a large family of excellent boys and girls.

JONATHAN SHARP is the owner of a very fine farm, some 200 acres in extent, situated on sections 1 and 2, Liberty Township, and containing some of the best agricultural land in the county. It is devoted to the raising of all kinds of cereals, and also stock. He was born in Claiborne County, Tenn., June 13, 1826, and is the son of George and Agnes (Kirk) Sharp, who were natives of Vermont and Virginia respectively. His father served throughout the War of 1812 in company with a brother. He is now deceased.

Our subject was reared and educated in his native county. He went to Christian County, Ill., in the fall of 1864, and in the spring of the following year came to this county and bought his present farm, and has since continued to reside upon it. At the time of settlement our subject was almost alone, as there were but two other families in the county. The nearest place of supply and post-office was Pawnee, a distance of twenty miles. Our subject paid the expense of establishing a post-office at Liberty in the fall of 1866, and Pleasant Johnson was appointed to take charge of the same. Indians were numerous and not always honest; at one time our subject almost precipitated trouble among them in his anxiety to recapture a horse they had stolen.

The conveniences of residence under such circumstances as the above can be appreciated when it is remembered that in later days, when the country was better settled, our subject when he desired to go to mill went either to Marysville, Kan., or Table Rock, Neb., a distance of twenty-two miles in the one case and twenty-seven in the other. He became the owner of a small grocery store at Beatrice, capable of containing, perhaps, one wagon-load of stock, sufficient, however, for the new cabins of that place.

Our subject was married, on the 8th of January, 1846, to Margaret E. Lynch, a daughter of Aaron Lynch (deceased), and there have been given to them twelve children, of whom eleven live, whose names are given as follows: Martha, Susan, Sarah, Cordelia, Ella, Lizzie, William, Nicholas, Lewis, Nathaniel and George. For about two years our subject held the office of Assessor, and filled the chair of Justice of the Peace for eleven years. He is a very earnest member of the Baptist Church. Usually Mr. Sharp votes the Republican ticket, and is active in behalf of that party, but at the same time is very careful, especially in local matters, to aid in the election only of good men, being swayed in his decision by what appears to be the people's interest.

Lewis B. Sharp, son of the above, was born in Claiborne County, Tenn., on the 20th of November, 1855, and came to this place with his father in the year 1865, and has resided here ever since. He is at present engaged as a clerk in the mercantile business in Liberty, where he has been for about seven years. Previous to that time he had been engaged in farming. He is the owner of 240 acres of valuable land, and possesses character and personal qualities that would warrant the assumption that the future has greater things in store for this enterprising and able young man.
